Notable features:

The 1876 map shows St. Mark's as extending into this space. These houses could have been church property -- perhaps Sexton's dwellings. In 1857 the rector, the Rev. Mr. McFarland, lived at 346 W. Lombard (old numbers) which was on the north side of Lombard Street.

Environmental context:

Quiet but wide Parkin Street dead-ends at Hollins; very good houses across-street on Hollins and Lithuanian Hall across Boyd Street to the north; large street trees are needed.
